SARAVYC to receive $1M to address dating violence among LGBTQ2S+ youth

The Stigma and Resilience among Vulnerable Youth Centre (SARAVYC), based at UBC's School of Nursing, is partnering with the McCreary Centre Society and its Youth Research Academy to work with LGBTQ2S+ youth to develop, implement, and evaluate the healthy relationship intervention for LGBTQ2S+ youth in British Columbia.

Led by Dr. Elizabeth Saewyc, the program will consist of several 20-minute modules that can be delivered during secondary school lunch periods—when most Gender Sexuality Alliance (GSA) clubs meet—or combined as part of after-school or community programming.

Federal Funding for Cannabis Research

Over the past decade, Dr. Emily Jenkins and her colleague Dr. Rebecca Haines-Saah at the University of Calgary have been conducting research into youth and cannabis use and leading the way for youth-centered harm reduction approaches.

Their next research project will build tools to reduce the potential harms of cannabis use among youth, and it will be doing that in partnership with the youths themselves.
