

Nancy Gault

Nancy Gault, Deputy Seniors Advocate

Nancy is currently the Deputy Seniors Advocate for British Columbia. Her role is to evaluate and recommend changes to processes, tools and policies that enhance the welfare of seniors in British Columbia.

Nancy has over 25 years of experience in the health sector that includes management roles at the Canadian Medical Protective Association, Deloitte Consulting, and in hospital administration. Most recently, Nancy worked at the Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) as the Client Affairs Manager, BC & Yukon where her focus was on improving CIHI's responsiveness to client needs and working with clients to plan and support the uptake of new health information systems, programs and analysis. In her ten years with CIHI, she also spent two years as the Manager, Research and Analytic Projects.

Nancy has a Master of Business Administration in Executive Management, a Master of Health Services Administration, and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing.