Winning Strategies for Academic-Practice Collaborations

Dr. Sandra Lauck, Clinical Assistant Professor, UBC Nursing
Dr. Jennifer Baumbusch, Associate Professor, UBC Nursing

The session will explore opportunities and strategies to bridge research across academic and clinical practice to capitalize on resources, and maximize scientific productivity and knowledge translation.

BIOS: Dr. Sandra Lauck is a clinician scientist and clinical nurse specialist at the Heart Centre at St. Paul’s Hospital. Her program of research focuses on the clinical evaluation of patient-reported outcomes and health care delivery models to support innovation in cardiac care.

Dr. Jennifer Baumbusch directs a research programme on health care delivery and nursing practice with older adults. She also has a focus on knowledge translation and exchange, with a particular interest in collaborative approaches involving partnerships with clinicians, decision-makers and policy-makers.